THE RESULT OF ELECTION

The election pulled off, last Tuesday, was the closest ever run for Governor in Kentucky. While Mr. Stanley's majority is small it is sufficient. The certified vote from every county in the State except Jefferson, which gave the Democratic candidate 4,031 majority, and giving the Republican candidates the doubtful votes, leaves a majority of 631 for Mr. Stanley. All the Democratic candidates for subordinate offices won out, Mr. Black, for Lieutenant Governor, leading the ticket.

The above information came from Democratic headquarters Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The State Election Commissioners will meet in Frankfort on the 22nd of this month, count the vote, and the successful candidates will be awarded certificates of their election.

Take into consideration the slump in the Democratic vote of the State and you will conclude that Mr. Stanley has run a remarkable race.

The Republicans are still claiming that Mr. Morrow has been elected, and will probably not give up until the State Commissioners count the vote and award the certificates.

The Louisville Times of last Friday says: No election since the famous Goebel-Taylor gubernatorial contest of 1899 has furnished the interesting aftermath as has the one held last Tuesday between Stanley and Morrow for the governorship. Since the polls closed not much of anything else has been discussed, and probably more wagers on the result have been made since the election than before. While the Democratic managers have all along stood pat on their claim that returns from every county showed the election of Stanley and the entire Democratic ticket, the first concession came from the Republicans when they admitted late yesterday that the rest of the Democratic ticket besides Stanley, for Governor, had been elected, and still maintaining that Morrow had won for Governor and giving the figures to substantiate their claim. At Democratic headquarters the Morrow figures were characterized as ridiculous.

Constitutional amendment No. 1, received in Adair county 470 votes against 582. Amendment No. 2, received 113 votes, against 910. Mr. J. E. Leslie, who was the Progressive candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, received 240 votes in the county.

The State election being over, the Congressional fight will open. Political campaigning never stops.

The correspondent of a Berlin newspaper who wires this news declares the defenders of the fortress fought with great bravery, defending their battered fortifications to the last. The main Serbian army retreated in good order.

Semi-official advices from Bucharest received in Italy, according to a Milan newspaper, declare that Rumania would enter the war on the side of the Entente Powers only after 500,000 men had been landed by the Allies.

Sofia advices reiterate that Allied troops are being landed at Kavala Greece. The landing forces are French, it is declared.

The further gains on both the Isonzo and Carso fronts are claimed by Rome in the official report on the Italian offensive operations. An exceptionally strong line of trenches on the Podgora Height was pierced and passes, it is declared. Several Austria counter attacks were repulsed.

A revolt of Albanians in southwestern Serbia is reported through Rome. An Albanian uprising of large proportions would be likely to menace the retreat of the Serbian army, now under attack in the North by Germans and Austrians and in the East by the Bulgarians.

Hunting Season Approaching.

It would be well for hunters or sportsmen, in addition to informing themselves as to the requirements of the State Game Laws, to get in touch with the Federal restrictions regarding migratory birds. The Department of Agriculture has issued a warning that Federal regulations as amended October 1st, 1914, will be enforced this year in regard to all migratory birds, even in the States where laws are in conflict with Federal regulations. The Government has studied the migration of birds as no State or individual can, and the shooting restrictions have been based on such findings. Every real sportsman will recognize the wisdom of these findings and co operate in protecting certain birds for years to come, a closed season for years for some, indefinitely for insect-eating birds, short season for others and restricted area for many. Study the law before getting out your gun.
